

Together, Humana and Jet Dental deliver healthier smiles to your workplace

Reimagined convenience – we call it human care

Humana has teamed up with Jet Dental to bring dental pop-up clinics straight to your workplace. All you need is 20 appointments to sign up, and we'll take care of the rest.

Check out these benefits of bringing the dentist to your workplace:

1 Easy and convenient

We bring the dentist to your employees so they don't have to miss valuable work hours. With a Jet Dental pop-up clinic, employees can get x-rays, cleanings and cavity fillings without ever leaving the office. Our preventative dental work takes an average of 40 minutes, less than a typical lunch break. We save employees time, so they can focus on thriving both inside the office and out. That's human care.

2 Important to your employee's overall health

At Humana, we believe you can't have whole-person health without dental care. Poor oral health has been linked to serious medical problems like hypertension, diabetes, oral cancers, kidney failure and heart disease. Only 30% of adult Americans visit the dentist annually, increasing their risk for these serious medical conditions. Bringing the dentist to your employees gives them a chance to have their dental issues addressed before they turn into bigger problems.

3 Jet Dental gives back

Feel good about hosting a Jet Dental pop-up clinic at your workplace. For every office served, Jet Dental provides free dental care to families or individuals in need through their Hayes Hope Dental™ Clinic. Humana is proud to work together with a company that shares the value of giving back to the community.

Dental pop-up clinics provide preventative care without leaving the office.
